Director of Special Education

What is Transition?

What will your child's life be like once he or she has left high school? Thinking about any child's future is often difficult - especially if the child has special needs.

- Transition services are defined as a coordinated set of activities that are designed to be within a results-oriented process that is focused on improving academic and functional achievement to facilitate movement from school to postsecondary activities.
- Transition should be thought of as a bridge from the security and structure of school to the challenges and risks of adult life.
- Transition planning has been a good idea for a long time. But in 1990, both the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) and the PA Standards and Regulations for Special Education mandated Transition planning for every special education student at age 16, or earlier if recommended by the child's IEP team.
- In 1997, the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act was amended and age 14 became the age at which eligible students are required to begin Transition planning.
- In 2004, the Individuals with Disabilities Education Improvement Act established the transition age at 16 once again.
- PA Chapter 14 regulations have designated the transition age - 14.

Transition means . . .

- Results-oriented Process
- Individualized Planning
- Vocational Assessment
- Vocational Education
- Community Experiences
- Post-Secondary Education
- Linkage with Agencies

Desired Results? In What Areas?

It is never too early to think about what a child's life will look like as he or she exits school.

Transition Planning - Expects us to think about post-school goals in the following three areas:

Employment -Options to consider should include competitive employment, military, employment in family business, self-employment, supported employment, community based employment experiences, or employment that allows for technological and medical supports.

Post-Secondary Education/Training - Options to consider should include vocational training program, 2 or 4 year college program, short-term employment training program, community or technical college, apprenticeship program, on- the-job training, community based habilitation program, licensing program, or community based employment experiences.

Independent Living - Concerns include residential planning, leisure and recreation, social networks.

What is in a Transition Plan?

At the age of 16 (or younger if recommended by the IEP team), IDEIA 2004 requires that students and their IEP teams select a “course of study” in order to begin the Transition process. Additionally, the student’s IEP is required by law to have specific components related to Transition. The components may include:

- Measurable postsecondary goals
- Student interests, preferences, strengths, and needs
- Transition activities including:
 - Instruction
 - related services
 - community experiences
 - development of employment
 - other adult living objectives and the person responsible for each activity

Who should attend a Transition Planning Meeting?

- The Student
- Family members
- Regular Educator
- Special Educator
- School representative (LEA)
- Career and Technical Center (CTC) representative
- Agency representatives
- District Transition Coordinator

What is Vocational Assessment?

Vocational Assessment is an on-going process designed to help students and parents understand the young person’s vocational preferences and potential. Assessment should not involve the use of only one instrument or test.

In order to provide a broad range of information about your child, a variety of assessment approaches and tools (both formal and informal) is necessary. Assessment can include such activities as:

- Vocational Interest/Preferences
- Aptitude Tests
- Learning Preferences/Styles
- Worker Style Preferences
- Worker Characteristics
- Situational Assessment

Both federal and state special education laws and the Carl Perkins Act require vocational assessment.

Where can a student get a Vocational Education?

A wide variety of activities can be considered vocational education. Such activities could include (but should not be limited to):

- Vocational/Technical School (regular or modified)
- Industrial Arts/Home Ec/Business Ed
- Cooperative Education (paid jobs)
- School-Based jobs (paid or non-paid)
- Community-based work experience (paid or non-paid)
- Job shadowing
- Volunteer work

What is Supported Employment?

Supported employment involves paid work in a community setting for those needing continuous support services. This model uses specialized job placement, intensive training with job coaches, and on-going follow-up. The agency(s) providing this service differ in each county.

Does Transition Planning apply to students going on to higher education or training after High School?

Yes. A Transition plan for a student going on to further education will look different than a plan for a student who is going directly into employment. Many transition activities should be planned to help this student reach his or her postsecondary goals.

A Transition plan for this student could include such activities as career exploration through job site visitations, identifying a post-secondary placement with support services, an updated psychological evaluation, academic support, learning strategy instruction, time management training, applying for non-timed SAT's, obtaining a driver's license, having a summer job, understanding life insurance or income taxes, developing a portfolio or resume, and developing self-advocacy skills.

What can Parents do to help in Transition Planning?

- Think about and discuss your child's future.
- Talk to your child about jobs and work.
- Reinforce your child's preparation for transition; self-advocacy, decision-making, household management, work habits, increased responsibilities at home, etc.
- Attend IEP and Transition planning meetings; express your views, ask questions.
- Be informed of special education standards and regulations - know your rights.
- Help your child prepare a Transition portfolio.
- Be aware of local agencies, services they offer and eligibility procedures; communicate with agencies.
- Keep accurate records on your child; birth certificate, medical, educational, work, social security, etc.

What is the role of the school in Transition Planning?

Provide Functional Instruction

What is “functional” will differ for each student based on the desired outcomes

Provide Vocational Evaluation

Should include assessment of interests, preferences, strengths, weaknesses, and needs

Provide Community-Based Experiences

Should include general community experiences as well as work experiences (paid or unpaid), based on student’s needs and desired outcomes

Begin the Transition Process

At the age of 14, Transition planning should begin—select a “course of study”— and Transition services should begin based on the desired post-school goals

Can agencies help in Transition Planning?

Yes, adult service agencies have a big role in Transition planning. However, students must be eligible for agency services, unlike the school system where students are entitled to services according to their IEP. The school and family should work together to identify helpful agencies and their eligibility requirements at an early stage in Transition planning.

What agencies can be Helpful?

AHEDD – A Specialized Human Resource Organization www.ahedd.org

AHEDD is a team of professionals with a vision to be the premier agency offering employment services for people with disabilities. Our focus is improving employment outcomes through exceptional service to each of our customers. AHEDD provides employment services throughout Pennsylvania to people with disabilities. The individuals we serve include youth in transition from school-to- work and adults who are looking for employment in the community. Participants in AHEDD’s services benefit from a customized plan of service that can include: skill assessments; career exploration and development; self- directed job search; job placement; work site support/training; and/or consultation on benefits management issues by Certified Work Incentive Coordinators (CWICs). The critical work that we do helps people gain greater independence, become productive and contributing members of their community and meet the diversity and labor force needs of businesses.

Bureau of Blindness and Visual Services- (a division of OVR-Office of Vocational Rehabilitation)

The mission of the Office of Vocational Rehabilitation (OVR) is to assist Pennsylvanians with disabilities to secure and maintain employment and independence. OVR’s Bureau of Blindness and Visual Services (BBVS) provides services to assist Pennsylvanians who are blind or visually impaired to work and maintain independent lives.

Cameron County Assistance Office

Can provide aid to families with dependent children, general assistance food stamps, medically needy only and non-money payment medical assistance, healthy beginnings, healthy horizons, new directions, nursing home care, personal care boarding home, domestic care, supplemental security income, waivers program, and energy assistance.

CenClear Services we provide in Elk/Cameron Counties

Certified Peer Specialist

A supportive advocate to assist individuals to stay on their recovery path. They are people who are living their own mental health recovery journey and are willing to openly share their experience, strength, and hope with others. (14-18 years of age, must have experienced a Serious Emotional Disturbance)(18 years and older must have a moderate/severe functional impairment.

Mobile Psychiatric Rehabilitation

Focuses on helping individuals to develop skills and find resources they need to be successful in their work, living, learning, and socializing domains. (18 years and older)

Transition Age Support Services (TASS)

Provide support and assistance to individuals with the overall goal of strengthening and enhancing transition to successful independent living. Services will address education and training, career development, financial literacy, community supports and basic daily living skills.

Blended Case Management (BCM)

Works with consumers to access, link, coordinate and monitor needs of services as well as provide support and advocacy. BCM will assist with transition to independent living, has a 24 hour crisis intervention, strength based approach and assists with social supports.

Pre-Employment Transition Services (PETS)

These services are designed to provide job exploration and other services, such as self-advocacy, independent living and workplace readiness training, in the early stages of the transition process.

We Provide: Group Services, Job Shadowing and Work Based Learning Experiences

Mental Health Outpatient Services

Provides services to children, adults, and families to assist individuals and families with meeting their therapeutic goals in an outpatient setting.

We provide: individual, collateral, family and group therapies as well as psychiatric services to enrolled consumers.

Early Intervention

The Early Intervention Program is for children birth to age 3 that demonstrate delays or disabilities in the cognitive, social, communication, physical, self-help or behavioral areas. These services are provided in the home, community or at childcare (the child's natural learning environment.) Services available include Occupational Therapy, Physical Therapy, Speech Therapy, Special Instructions (Developmental Teacher) Hearing and Vision Therapy.

Cameron and Elk Behavioral and Developmental Programs

Can assist graduates by acting as a resource, and help provide information on the types of Mental Health and Intellectual Disability supports and services available in the three county area. It also identifies specific contact people that can access those services that may be needed. CE contracts with many agencies to provide Case Management (Advocacy), Residential, Supported and Sheltered Employment, Adult Day Treatment, Outpatient Counseling, and Psychiatric Services, among others. CE directly provides Residential and Home Based Waiver Case Management, Early Intervention, and CASSP Services.

Dickinson Center Inc.

Adult Habilitation Center: Has programs and services available for daily living, socialization, and the Elkwood Arts program.

Blended Case Management: Primary functions include outreach, intake, assessment of individual strengths and needs, referral to services, accessing and securing services, coordinating with other agencies, developing service plans, supportive counseling, advocacy, and monitoring to ensure delivery and high quality services.

Employment Support Services: The primary goal of Employment Support Services is to carefully match worker's abilities and interests for prospective employer's job requirements. This is done through assessments, job shadowing, work based learning experiences, and job readiness training. Job development can include assistance with resume writing, practice with interviewing skills, and job searching. Employment Support will assist with specialized on-the- job training and follow-along services to ensure successful vocational placement. DCI works closely with OVR, IDD services, local school programs, and County mental health providers for a collaborative effort in order to provide the consumer with a comprehensive system of vocational support.

Home and Community Habilitation: A direct service designed to assist individuals with intellectual disabilities to acquire, retain, and improve the self-help, socialization, and adaptive skills necessary to reside successfully in their home and community-based settings. Through the provision of this service individuals learn, maintain, or improve skills through their participation in a variety of everyday life activities. They learn and use skills in the context of these activities, this can be considered a functional approach to the delivery of services. These activities must be necessary for individuals to live in the community, to live more independently, or to be more productive and participatory in community life. Services must be provided in a manner that ensures the person's health and welfare.

Pre-Employment Transition Services: Dickinson Center, Inc. is a contracted provider working collaboratively with the Office of Vocational Rehabilitation in the provision of Pre-Employment Transition Services; services include group and individualized services to help students gain an increased understanding of their options after leaving high school. Group services include independent living skills training, self-advocacy training, and workplace readiness training. Individual services include community work instruction and work-based learning experience.

ELCAM Inc.

Can provide vocational evaluation, training, placement, and employment for individuals with vocational disabilities. The company employs individuals without vocational disabilities to provide an integrated work setting in order to carry out the various programs.

Elk County Assistance Office

Can provide cash assistance, food stamps, medical assistance, the disability advocacy program, employment and training counseling and referrals, medical transportation, and fuel/energy. New Directions for Employment will help pay for child care, transportation, car repair/purchase, relocation, and course registration.

Life and Independence For Today/Center for Independent Living

Can provide information and referral, peer counseling, individual and group advocacy, independent living skills training and accessibility counseling.

Office of Vocational Rehabilitation (OVR)

The Office of Vocational Rehabilitation (OVR) is a state agency that provides services to individuals with disabilities, when the disability creates limitations to finding and/or maintaining employment. OVR provides services such as: diagnostics, vocational evaluation, vocational counseling and guidance, restoration, training, and placement. Services are eligibility based. The goal of OVR services is to help the individual maintain competitive level employment.

The Early Reach Initiative is an outreach service provided by the Office of Vocational Rehabilitation (OVR) for youth with disabilities as early as 14 years old and their parents/guardians who are beginning to think about and plan for the transition from school to the world of work and adult life. The purpose is to ensure youth with disabilities & their parents/guardians know about, understand, and are able to access OVR services.

PATH (Projects for Assistance in Transition from Homelessness)

Can assist adolescents and young adults, between the ages of 17 and 30, who have been diagnosed with serious mental illness or serious emotional disturbance and are homeless or at risk of homelessness. The PATH Liaison will act as a referral source and resource manager to the individual and service providers. Referrals will be made to the most appropriate and least restrictive housing option and support services that are available based on the individuals' strengths and needs. The PATH Project serves Cameron, Clearfield, Elk, Jefferson, McKean, and Potter Counties.

Pennsylvania's Education for Children and Youth Experiencing Homelessness

(Pennsylvania ECYEH) Program was established to make sure homeless youth have access to a free and appropriate public education while removing barriers that homeless children face. Its goal is to have the educational process continue as uninterrupted as possible while the children are in homeless situations. Some of the other main objectives of Pennsylvania's Education for Children and Youth Experiencing Homelessness Program are to inform local school districts of their responsibilities to homeless children and youth, to increase awareness about the needs of homeless children, explain current laws and policies, and provide practical tips for working with homeless children.
